Meet the new guy

It's Tim Cook's turn to introduce Apple's next-gen iPhone

Reuters

SAN FRANCISCO Tim Cook finally gets his chance to stride out from under Steve Jobs' shadow, and he could not have picked a better time or device to mark his unofficial debut as Apple CEO.

The latest generation of the iPhone—still the smartphone industry's gold standard after four years—is expected to see the light of day Tuesday, just in time for the holidays.

Even in a dismal economy, consumers should again line up in droves for a souped-up device that also marks Cook's first major product launch since taking over from Jobs in August.

The so-called iPhone 5 is widely expected to have a bigger touchscreen and faster processor than the iPhone 4, which helped the company stay a step ahead of rivals in an increasingly competitive smartphone market.

Its challenge will be to wow consumers with yet more game-changing innovations and top itself. The aging iPhone 4 still is an unqualified blockbuster: With more than 20 million sold in the third quarter that ended June 25 alone, it is likely to become the world's top-selling smartphone.

"Consumers view Apple products as a must-have," said Channing Smith, co-manager of the Capital Advisors Growth Fund, which owns Apple shares. "Apple phones and products have become almost a necessity. We don't expect them to falter."

But the latest version of the gadget that helped define the smartphone category is coming at a time when the world economy is slowing and competition is at its peak. More than 550,000 Google Inc. Android-based devices—including tablets—are activated each day globally.

Apple's ability to generate enthusiasm among consumers and its command of the higher-end market, however, may make it less susceptible to a broader slowdown, investors and analysts say.

Cook is likely to take the stage at Apple central at Cupertino's 1 Infinite Loop, where Wall Street will get a chance to see firsthand how the acknowledged operations maven fares at a major product launch. Although a highly regarded executive, he is not known for pitching products.

Your social guide to 'Human Centipede'

Jen Kim
» redeye@tribune.com

This weekend, "The Human Centipede 2 (Full Sequence)," which was banned in Britain, will happily make its way to Chicago, via IFC films. If you don't know what the movie is about—or can't figure it out from the title—consider yourself lucky.

The hot, steaming pile of cinematic excrement (in the most literal sense) that was 2009's "The Human Centipede (First Sequence)" was flushed down the toilet by most critics, indicated by its crappy 50 percent Tomatometer rating at rotten tomatoes.com.

Roger Ebert refused to rate the original "Human Centipede," deeming his usually dependable star rating system as "unsuited to this film." The New York Times said it was a "must-see for coprophiliacs [a fancy way to describe people who like poo] and spanking enthusiasts." I might add: those afflicted with chronic constipation, blind people and, perhaps, urologists, for medical purposes only.

It only seems fitting that a film devoted to such a raw human process would go No. 2 (hee!) and be turned into a sequel. Before you put on your diapers and pack your vomit bags, you should know this film is not for everyone. In fact, I've compiled a short list of people for whom "Centipede" is suitable.

» People who want to break up with their significant other. If you are in an unhappy relationship but are too cowardly to have that "final" talk, take your ex-loved one to this movie. Afterwards, look them straight in the eye and say something like, "Wow, that was great!" or "Let's eat, I'm hungry!" or "Wanna try that at home?"

» People who want to become a bulimic or anorexic. Vomiting is a given in this film, so aspiring models and actresses are encouraged to watch whenever they feel an eating binge coming along. Chances are you won't be thinking about consuming anything for hours, days or possibly years after one screening, so forget diet pills and expensive gym memberships! This $10 movie ticket will have you shedding those pounds.

» Extremely boring people who have nothing interesting to share at parties. I hate these people. They look at you blankly and nod in agreement with you, even when you're speaking in a made-up language. The world is essentially divided into people who have seen "The Human Centipede" and those who haven't. The former category is considerably smaller—an elite cadre of people who belong to some underground society. No one knows what they know or what they have experienced, which means they will forever have something to talk about, whether it is to engage or terrify the rest of us.

» Anyone you hate. Frenemy? Your boss? Your next-door neighbor with the obnoxious dog that wakes you up every goddamn morning? Tell them you want to take them out for a special treat and watch a new European art film that got great reviews. Walk into the theater with them, then as soon as the film starts, tell them you've got to go to the bathroom. Run away as fast as you can, and never return.

ADULT SLEEPOVER

When love isn't ready to live under one roof, it can spend the night

By Kyra Kyles | REDEYE

Spare toothbrush. Extra set of undies. A bag big enough to transport two to three of your favorite outfits.

This is a list of must-haves if you're part of an emerging relationship trend among 20-somethings.

They're called "stayover relationships," and they are popular among young couples, according to a recent University of Missouri Study published in the current issue of Journal of Science and Personal Relationships.

The technical definition, according to the study respondents, who ranged in age from 18 to 29: Young couples who don't live together, but stay overnight together from three to seven nights per week. Though there were no hard and fast percentages of people who fit into this group, the phenomenon was enough to get the attention of study author Tyler Jamison.

RedEye tracked down a number of couples living this lifestyle, though none of them knew it had a name—until now. Each had his or her own reason for not moving in with their partners—from the newness of their relationship to past failures living with a partner to parental disapproval. But a Loop-based psychotherapist warned that even though stayovers may be appealing, this type of arrangement quickly can turn into a commitment cop-out.

"I have clients who are in their late 20s and up to their 30s who have been dating for 7 to 10 years and are doing this stayover-type thing," said Jinnie English, president and CEO of executive counseling firm International & Chicago Achievers. "The problem is not that they want their own space. The problem was they didn't want to share their space with the person they are dating. Clearly, these are cases of relationships that will not work out."

English said stayover relationships work best when commitment is brand new or if a couple lives far away from each other due to job constraints. The University of Missouri study suggested that reasons for stayovers included a desire for personal space, a need to avoid financial entanglements with a partner and uncertainty of the future of a relationship.

Those are reasons that should be addressed and resolved quickly for a more lasting relationship, English said: "If you're grown enough to play house, you should be grown enough for real, lasting commitment."

Parental views on cohabitation factor into Jillian Conley's stayover relationship, though it was a non-factor for other couples who talked to RedEye and not a recurring reason among stayover study participants. Conley, who lives with her parents in Cary, Ill., spends about five nights a week at her boyfriend's River North place.

"It's weird," Conley, 29, said of the her parents' views of the stayover situation. "They are fine with me going and coming, but if we did anything more official, it would obviously be iffy. They don't really want me moving in with a guy I'm not married or engaged to."

Zach Koutsky, who lives in the Bucktown area, says his parents aren't averse to him living with his girlfriend, but an 18-month lease and other issues make that mission impossible for now.

"Sometimes it feels like we're having a sleepover like little kids," Koutsky, 27, said with a laugh, about his frequent travels to stay at his girlfriend's place in Lakeview. Because she has a cat who recently underwent surgery, she doesn't often stay over at Koutsky's place.

"It can be a pain," Koutsky, a University of Illinois at Chicago grad student, said during a recent interview. "Like today, I forgot my contacts. Now I've gotta wear glasses all day. I can't tell you how many times I've forgotten an undershirt."

But it's worth it, he said, for the opportunity to see his girlfriend several times a week. Living together is not an option at the moment because of the lease. Koutsky also may take a leave from his urban planning studies and travel with President Obama's re-election campaign. He recognizes this setup may look like living together-lite, but: "For us, this works right now," he said.

Conley, too, said the stayover has its benefits.

"I get that release," she said of her travels back home to her parents' house, where she often does laundry over the weekend. "I don't have to shave my legs for three days. His place is a nice size, but it's not that big. We're kind of on top of each other and it can get crowded."

Some have more serious hang-ups about living together or marrying.

HOW TO LIVE APART

"The Notebook." "The Princess Bride." "Pretty Woman." Now those are some movies that make you want to find endless love and dive right in. Then there are pop culture couplings that make you want to run screaming for your singledom. In the spirit of our living-together lite topic, RedEye dug up some big-screen examples that would give any set of star-crossed lovers pause. Heck, this might make them too scared for a stayover. (Caution, some spoilers ahead.) K.K.

'Blue Valentine'

Even if you haven't seen this 2010 film, you may have seen trailers featuring the good-looking Dean (Ryan Gosling) and Cindy (Michelle Williams) doing a little soft-shoe and singing in one of the cutest meet-cutes in movie history. But the love affair, and marriage, to follow is anything but adorable. In one scene, Cindy still moons over a college boyfriend who pummeled Dean, sending Dean into a jealous rage. In another scene, Dean sucker punches his soon-to-be-estranged wife's boss. Somebody call the couples' counselor.

GUIDE FOR STAYOVERS

Not so fast, stayover folks.

Just because you don't technically live with your girlfriend or boyfriend, doesn't mean you don't have to work as hard at co-existing.

That is but one of the tips shared by relationship expert Bela Gandhi, president and founder of the Lincoln Park-based Smart Dating Academy. Gandhi, who has been married for 14 years, advises local and national clients on how to prepare themselves for dating, online and otherwise. She offered advice specific to stayover relationships, so cut this out and keep it on the fridge—at both stayover sites. K.K.

1 Don't storm out

No relationship will fare well if either party storms out during arguments, according to Gandhi, but flight risk is even higher if you are not living together full time. "We don't want to become slaves to our words because nobody forgets awful things said in a fight, but don't leave," Gandhi said. "Just say, 'Let's not escalate this. Let's give it a break and come back in an hour.'" In Gandhi's experience, one or both people are ready to apologize well before 60 minutes elapse.

2 Agree on how long you will stay over

"Talk about how long you both are willing to do this for," Gandhi advised of the step right before living together. "It will breed resentment if one person feels it's going on too long. Make a decision on this together."

3 Be open to deeper commitment fairly soon into the arrangement

This is dependent upon age to some degree, according to Gandhi, who said that individuals over the age of 28 have no reason to date for any more than two years without marrying. Stayover couples should be engaged, rather than living in and out of suitcases for years on end. That is, unless it's cool with both people. "But usually, that isn't the case," Gandhi said.

Zach Koutsky and Stephanie Orman at her apartment

LENNY GILMORE/REDEYE

Christine Herrera, 23, who lives in Bridgeport, lived with a boyfriend once. It didn't work out, so she said she wants to take her time before mixing her living space and finances with a longtime friend-turned-boyfriend.

"I try not to hold the past experience against him," Herrera said of her boyfriend of a few months. "But there's no rush for it. We're still young and don't need to rush into living together. When my mom talks about how she lived with my dad at age 20, it's mind-boggling to me. We just see how relationships these days can dissolve so quickly."

Koutsky—who himself once was stuck in a bad live-in arrangement in New York—agrees that stayovers, including his, must have an end date.

"I would not put a hard and fast timeline because for each relationship, it comes differently, but if you are doing this for three years or more, you might call that into question," Koutsky said. "Doing what I'm doing, even I'd be looking at a relationship like that, asking, 'Why haven't you moved in?'"

'The Break Up'

In an awkward, life-imitates-art situation, Brooke (Jennifer Aniston) and ex, Gary (Vince Vaughn), fight over a recently purchased condo in the wake of a breakup. The vengeful exes, eager to keep their swanky digs, engage in a war of one-upsmanship that includes Gary inviting hookers over for a card game and Brooke parading a throng of suitors through the house; that is, until Gary actually gets one of them to play video games with him. Advantage: Gary. There is some glimmer of hope for their union at the end. Not so much for the real-life coupling of Aniston and Vaughn.

'War of the Roses'

In one of the most brutal divorces to be captured on film, the attractive, once-lovestruck couple of Oliver (Michael Douglas) and Barbara Rose (Kathleen Turner) turn into blood enemies. How bad does it get? This bad. Oliver relieves himself on his estranged wife's meticulously planned dinner party. Barbara nails the door to the home's sauna shut and nearly shake-and-bakes her husband to death. Despite the best referee efforts of divorce attorney, Gavin (Danny DeVito), both end up in a grave after a knock-down, dragout physical battle. Talk about till death do us part.

Rescue crews search the water near Oak Street after a man went into Lake Michigan on Saturday but never came out. NANCYSTONE/TRIBUNE

Man, 51, missing after Lake Michigan outing

Chicago Tribune

On Saturday night, when a 51-year-old man from Berkeley went into Lake Michigan near Oak Street, he encountered churning, unforgiving water that pulled him out and under the brown-gray surface. The man, James Garcia, remained missing through Sunday.

"Even with best intentions," said Lt. Erroll Davis, commanding officer of the Chicago Police Marine Unit, "anyone who enters the water can lose control really quickly. It's not a controlled environment."

"They think it's like jumping in the YMCA pool. But wind changes [and] temperatures change. There are so many other variances."

Family and friends had gathered to mourn Sunday afternoon at the Franklin Park home of Garcia's daughter, Jillian Alvarez, who said her father loved the lakefront and viewed it as a place of repose.

He swam in the lake in the summer and spent nearly every weekend at Montrose Harbor after visiting his brother in a Chicago nursing home.

"He just liked to clear his mind there," Alvarez said.

On Saturday, Alvarez said, Garcia was celebrating a relative's birthday at a home in Melrose Park and then decided to head for the lake with a group.

"They went up to the beach," Alvarez said. "I don't know why. I don't know if he fell or what."

Garcia grew up in Chicago and worked as a machine operator for more than 30 years at a factory in Bellwood, his daughter said. A resident of Berkeley for about eight years, Garcia enjoyed riding his bike, playing the lottery and maintaining his meticulous lawn, Alvarez said.

But favorite moments were spent with his granddaughter. He liked to build pillow forts with her. Relatives said he had a reputation for helping others.

"He was always the one they called for something," Alvarez said.

CTA bus shelters go high-tech

The CTA has started installing electronic signs at bus shelters to inform riders when the next bus will arrive. A look at the numbers.

TRIBUNE

150

The CTA hopes to have the LED signs in place at 150 of the busiest bus shelters by March. The work is being done under a contract the transit agency's board approved in mid-May.

Sept. '12

By next September, the signs should be up and running at the 400 shelters citywide that have the heaviest ridership, Mayor Emanuel said Friday.

20%

The 400 shelters represent 20 percent of the bus shelters throughout Chicago, but accommodate 80 percent of the system's bus ridership.

Obama owes Bush apology, Cheney says

1 Former Vice President Dick Cheney (above) praised the Obama administration Sunday for using a drone strike to kill American-born Muslim cleric Anwar al-Awlaki, but said President Obama should now reverse past criticism of former President George W. Bush's actions against suspected terrorists. "I think it was a very good strike. I think it was justified," Cheney told CNN's Candy Crowley on "State of the Union." But "I'm waiting for the administration to go back and correct something they said two years ago when they criticized us for 'overreacting' to the events of 9/11."

Murder suspect killed

2 Three law enforcement officers patrolling a remote stretch of northern California woods shot dead a double-murder suspect whom authorities had been hunting for 36 days, a sheriff said.

Monument update

3 A planned inspection of the earthquake-damaged Washington Monument was delayed over the weekend after high winds blew one of the roped-in workers 30 feet off the structure. Work will start again sometime this week.

Kidnapped woman taken to Somalia

4 A French woman seized in northern Kenya was taken to Somalia by her captors after a sea battle to rescue her failed, Kenyan government officials said. Gunmen snatched the woman early Saturday from her holiday home in Manda Island, close to where a Briton was abducted and her husband killed last month.

Wall St. protest spreads

5 NEW YORK Police arrested hundreds of protesters who occupied an iconic New York bridge during demonstrations against the nation's financial system, before releasing the demonstrators with tickets.

The "Occupy Wall Street" protesters extended their rally to Brooklyn Bridge, where they were cited for blocking the roadway, authorities said late Saturday.

Protesters banged drums and chanted, "the whole world is watching" as police moved in.

"Over 700 summonses and desk appearance tickets have been issued in connection with the demonstration on the Brooklyn Bridge ... after multiple warnings by police were given to protesters to stay on the pedestrian walkway," said Paul J. Browne, deputy commissioner for the New York City Police Department.

Browne said authorities had warned protesters they would be arrested if they occupied the roadway.

"Some complied and took the walkway without being arrested," he said.

Bridge traffic heading to Brooklyn from Manhattan was shut down for several hours, police said. Manhattan-bound lanes were open during the incident.

The protesters are rallying against what they say are social inequities resulting from the financial system.

Organizers have said they take their inspiration from the Arab Spring protests that swept through Africa and the Middle East this year. Crowds have taken up residence in the park in New York's financial district, calling for 20,000 people to flood the area for a "few months."

The protest campaign—which uses the hashtag #occupywallstreet on Twitter—began in July with the launch of a simple campaign website calling for a march and a sit-in at the New York Stock Exchange.

Over the past two weeks, demonstrations have addressed various issues, including police brutality, union busting and the economy, the group said.

FOUR SCORED

Every week before the Bears game, RedEye's sports crew gets to the point. And we don't let them off the hook. Here's how they fared Sunday:

- ✓ Ernest Wilkins: Bears 27, Carolina 24
- ✓ Tracy Swartz: Bears 21, Carolina 14
- ✓ Brian Moore: Bears 31, Carolina 16
- ✓ Chris Sosa: Bears 31, Carolina 30

TALKING MONEY

Matt Forte and Lance Briggs have made it clear they want their contracts upgraded, but do their performances back up their demands? Here's how they did vs. Carolina.

Briggs

He had eight tackles, including a huge stop on a Panthers third-down play in the fourth quarter. He also tipped a pass that resulted in an interception return for a TD.

$$$$

Forte

When you put up a career-high 205 rushing yards, you can pretty much write your contract terms, no? Get your linemen something nice, Matt.

- $$$$ Stop whining.
- $$$$ Maybe we'll talk.
- $$$$ You've got a real shot.
- $$$$ Cha-ching!

PLAY IT AGAIN, BEARS

DUSTING OFF THE RUNNING GAME PAYS OFF BIG HEADING INTO DETROIT SHOWDOWN

Julius Peppers
US PRESSWIRE

RedEye

Maybe it's because they went back to the drawing board and didn't throw the ball as much. Maybe it's because Carolina is inferior to the Bears. Maybe it's because they weren't playing Green Bay. Whatever it was, the Bears on Sunday rediscovered the formula that brings success more often than not. And not a moment too soon: Their next game is at Detroit (4-0).

Kick-started

With the Bears' shaky, depleted offensive line, it helps when Devin Hester's doing his thing. First he returned a kickoff 73 yards, setting up a Matt Forte score. Then Hester sprinted into the record books with his 11th career punt return for a TD, this one a 69-yarder. How long before teams just go for it on fourth down every time?

Sweet Peppers

On a relatively quiet day for the defensive superstar, Julius Peppers did get his hands on the ball at a crucial time. He blocked a Panthers field-goal attempt in the third quarter that would have cut the Bears' lead to one at the time. He does it on defense, special teams—he'd probably play offensive line if Cutler asked.

Pass? No thanks

Check out the play-calling on the Bears' opening drive: Eight plays, 78 yards, zero passes, three points. Mike Martz even called a quarterback draw. For the game, the Bears had 224 rushing yards. Maybe that will keep teams from blitzing Cutler so much. Or at least keep him from throwing interceptions.

Luck's holding up

Remember when the Bears played against all those backup quarterbacks last year? It's as if that good fortune is taking other forms now. On Sunday, Carolina's Olindo Mare missed a 52-yard field goal, which was preceded by a Panthers penalty. And a TD pass to the Panthers' Jeremy Shockey was wiped out when he was called for offensive pass interference. The football gods come through again.

Holster the flags, NFL

There should be a time to penalize end zone celebrations and a time to let boys be boys.

Devin Hester did a fairly innocent trio of somersaults after taking his NFL-record 11th punt return back for a touchdown Sunday, drawing a 15-yard penalty for excessive celebration.

Now, showing up the other team is unnecessary and should be frowned upon, as should screaming like your shoes are on fire every time you make a routine catch (cough, Steve Smith, cough). However, it's hard to see the harm in a few elementary school shenanigans. Lighten up, NFL.

OH, YES!

Detroit erased a 24-point deficit in Dallas on Sunday to win 34-30 and is 4-0 for the first time since 1980. The Lions' success is unnerving if you're a Bears fan but astonishing to watch nonetheless. Note to Bears management: Watch Calvin Johnson's two acrobatic touchdown catches Sunday, and maybe you'll change your mind about bringing in a top-tier wide receiver.

OH, NO!

Your eyes do not deceive you: Star-laden Philadelphia really is 1-3 and bringing up the rear in the NFC East. The Eagles got there by blowing a 23-3 lead to visiting San Francisco on Sunday, even with Michael Vick throwing for 416 yards. They're becoming more like the Miami Heat every day, eh, Vince Young?

UH-OH

Are receivers in the AFC South cursed? Tennessee's Kenny Britt went down with an injury recently, Indianapolis' Reggie Wayne is suffering from Peyton-Manning-is-hurt-itis, and Sunday Houston stud Andre Johnson suffered a hamstring injury. Might be time to make a trade, fantasy owners.

Jay Cutler's uncanny impression, right down to the facial expression, of a statue.

Does my name look like Cecil to you? Wait, that's just wrong.

The entire Cubs roster, along with the White Sox's Adam Dunn.

A big bag of cash addressed to his father. That's how it works with him, right?

Mike Martz and the Bears' offensive line. That's fair, isn't it?

2 Why did former Bear Olin Kreutz sit out Sunday's game?

Some say "injured knee." Others say "vampire hiding from the sun, and from true love."

BTW, I want to apologize to NU/Illini fans. I've been making fun of your teams for a while ...

Like the rest of us, playoff baseball has made him weak in the knees.

He's got a case of the sucks.

Good question. Maybe I'll check Maurice Jones-Drew tweets to find out why.

3 What did the Bears say to Greg Olsen on the field Sunday?

Let's hope they were classy enough to at least make a clever "Sex Panther" reference.

... but that game Saturday was amazing. Well done.

"The new guy doesn't like throwing to you either, eh?"

"Enjoy your promising young QB And All Pro receiver, we'll keep Hester, Forte and the win."

"Enjoy your garbage TD. We'll enjoy our ugly WIN."

4 What's really holding up the NBA labor talks?

Some say "disagreement over money." Others say "secret society obsessed with Ben Franklin."

The fact that the owners don't really give a crap if there's a season or not.

Players insisting that "All My Children" be brought back. Not gonna happen.

Kanye. He busted in and said, "Imma let you finish, but the NFL had one of the best lockouts of all time."

Union has brought in LeBron to close. No hoops for you.

5 What's your favorite part about October sports?

When my favorite teams reveal they're gonna miss the postseason but say thanks for buying our stuff.

The meat of college football with NFL/playoff baseball acting as the side dishes.

RedEye

Labor negotiations in sports rarely are exciting. It's usually just a bunch of well-dressed people sitting around and talking. But every once in a while tempers flare. On Sunday, NBA commissioner David Stern confirmed he had a verbal dustup with Miami guard Dwyane Wade on Saturday. "I would guess that neither of us remember, but there was a heated exchange of some kind," Stern told reporters in New York. "I feel passionately about the system that we have and what it has delivered and what it should continue to deliver for the players and the owners. And he feels passionately too." This calls for a RedEye faceoff. Who wins if things get physical?

He's 29 and plays professional basketball. ☒

SHAPE

☐ He's 69 and watches professional basketball.

WINNER: WADE. Though if Stern proves he can dunk, that might change things.

He's one year into a six-year, $107.5 million deal. Of course, he's not being paid at the moment. ☐

FINANCIAL BACKING

☒ The league owners put him in charge, and lockout or not, most of them have deep pockets.

WINNER: STERN. With billionaires bankrolling him, he can outbid Wade in the personal training department.

One of the best late-game closers in the NBA, with a title to prove it. ☒

COMPETITIVE EDGE

☐ Graduated from Columbia Law School, so we'll assume he's good at arguing.

WINNER: WADE. He's better in pressure situations. Other than this year's NBA finals, anyway.

In addition to being an NBA superstar, he's been featured on magazine covers and starred in movies. ☐

SPHERE OF INFLUENCE

☒ Has overseen the NBA as it's expanded its TV broadcasts to 215 countries.

WINNER: STERN. He's clearly got all kinds of connections, which could sway the fight one way or another ...

Pretty steady, though it took a hit when he and his Heat teammates paraded around like they had won eight titles. ☒

POPULARITY

☐ The game is as popular as ever, but the dress code still doesn't sit well with some players. And trying to change the ball material was a horrible idea.

WINNER: WADE. Seriously, what was up with that ball?

OVERALL WINNER

WADE. Although Stern would have the edge in a war of words, Wade's got him beat in the ring.

Parts 2 and 3 of "Prohibition" air at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday on WTTW, with all three parts repeating Saturday. The DVD and Blu-ray will be released Tuesday.

TRIVIA

Chicago played a major role in the history of prohibition. Here are five facts explored in the documentary "Prohibition." S.M.

» Proponents for the 18th Amendment pointed to Chicago's Levy District as a prime example of alcohol's harmful nature. Located on the South Side, the Levy District was home to 500 saloons, 500 brothels, 56 pool halls, 15 gambling halls and countless cocaine parlors. The 1st Ward alderman was in charge of this riotous operation.

» Mere minutes after Prohibition became law, six masked bandits armed with pistols hijacked a truck and stole four cases of grain alcohol in Chicago, while another gang hijacked a truck loaded with bourbon and yet another emptied two freight cars loaded with whiskey.

» The favorite drink of Chicagoans during prohibition was called "yak-yak bourbon" and consisted of raw alcohol mixed with burnt sugar and iodine. Yes, iodine.

» Al Capone, the man who would make Chicago "synonymous with 'murder and mayhem' for a generation," began his criminal career as the chief enforcer for gangster Johnny Torio, who retired after being shot five times and surviving. Capone earned the nickname "Scarface" due to three horizontal slashes across his left cheek. He rode around the city in a seven-ton bulletproof Cadillac.

» The government failed to connect Capone to any of the murders, bootlegging or other illegal activities for which he was responsible. Finally, the feds managed to convict Capone on 22 counts of income tax evasion, the irony being that the income tax existed largely because prohibitionists had needed to find a way to replace the lost tax revenue from banning alcohol.

'Prohibition' shines light on Chicago's special role in '20s and '30s

By Stephen Markley

FOR REDEYE

No city became as heated, violent and infamous in its rebellion against the decade-long social experiment known as Prohibition than Chicago.

Directors Ken Burns and Lynn Novick explore the city's special role in the debate over the 18th Amendment to the Constitution, which banned the sale of alcoholic beverages in the U.S. from 1920 to 1933, in their new documentary, "Prohibition," which is currently airing on WTTW and will be released Tuesday on DVD and Blu-ray. They use archival photos, historians' comments and voiceovers by prominent actors, including Peter Coyote's narration.

"We're in the job of resurrection," Burns said during a recent appearance at the Chicago History Museum. "And one of the aspects of that is the centrality of this city to the American imagination. Chicago is really the most American of all cities. Sometimes the focus on the coastal powers can distract from that, but Chicago really is central to the American story."

Novick and Burns explained how Prohibition was pushed by an eclectic coalition of women's rights groups, anti-immigrant sentiment and progressive groups hoping to improve the lives of the poor. In the film, they show how the issue of alcohol blended into debates about feminism, immigration, conflicts between urban and rural populations and even World War I.

"There were many alliances of convenience that made for strange bedfellows," Novick said.

According to Burns, the effects of Prohibition on Chicago and American society in general cannot be overstated. The film spends a good chunk of time focusing on the legendary Al Capone and Chicago's "Beer Wars," which would turn the city into the Wild West for nearly a decade. Shootouts on Michigan Avenue, speakeasies opening around the city and the violent deaths by "shooting, stabbing and bludgeoning" of dozens of gangsters became the norm during the ban on alcohol sales.

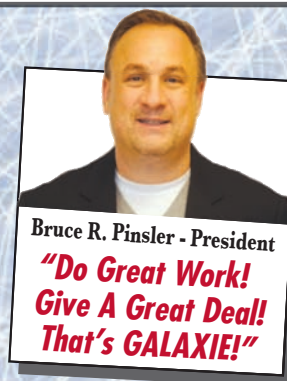

"Alcohol had been a part of human history for a millennia," said Novick, explaining the impact of the laws' many unintended consequences, "and eradicating alcohol proved highly difficult." STEPHEN MARKLEY IS A REDEYE SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

Sean Maher's new out life

Actor says he did it for family, but 'The Playboy Club' was perfect venue

By Curt Wagner

REDEYE

Sean Maher's role on "The Playboy Club" seems to have been tailor-made as a platform from which he could come out publicly as gay.

Not only is his character also named Sean, but he's a closeted gay man married to a lesbian bunny who helps organize an underground gay rights group. On Monday's episode, "A Matter of Simple Duplicity" (9 p.m., NBC), Sean, working as campaign manager for state's attorney candidate Nick Dalton (Eddie Cibrian), suggests that Nick hide his affiliation with the Playboy Club and his relationship with Bunny Mother Carol-Lynn to gain votes.

"I think it's interesting that Sean is trying to hide all these aspects of Nick's life," Maher told RedEye. "He's making a living out of hiding [other people's secrets], which is what he does personally."

During lunch Wednesday at Markethouse restaurant, Maher repeated what his character said to Nick in last week's episode: "It doesn't matter who you are; it only matters what you portray." That line resonates with Maher because, until he came out in an Entertainment Weekly article Sept. 28, he had portrayed a very different image of himself for most of his 14-year acting career.

Although some friends, family members and even co-workers knew he was gay, he never brought up his personal life on set or spoke out publicly about it. But now, the 36-year-old Maher and Paul, his partner of nearly nine years, have two children, Sophia

Rose, 4, and Liam Xavier, 14 months, whom they want to raise without secrets.

"How could I tell my daughter, 'There's something about our family we've got to keep to ourselves?'" Maher said. "Everything that we're instilling in her is to have compassion and kindness and to be confident and to not judge and just to embrace who you are ...

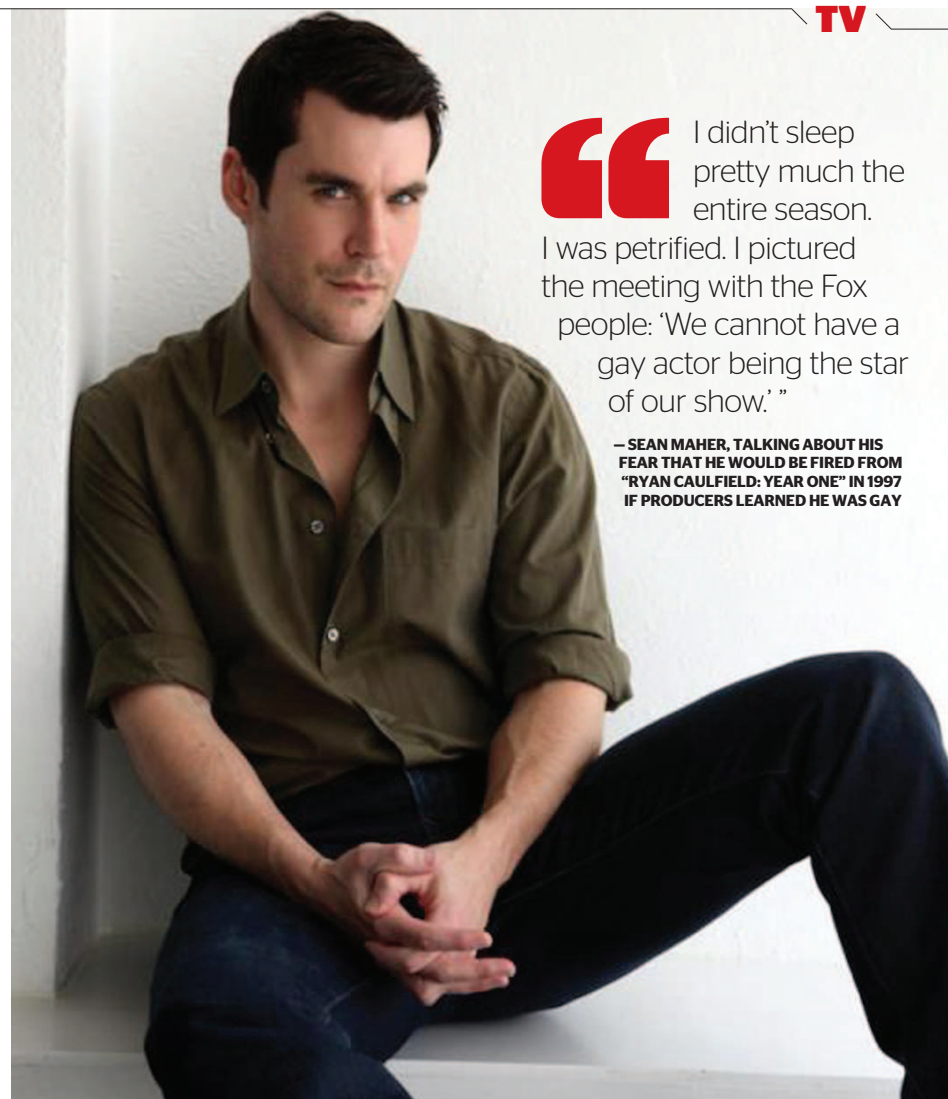

"I just wanted to be a good role model for my daughter."

Maher's charade started when he moved to L.A. fresh out of New York University in 1997 and landed the coveted title role on Fox's drama "Ryan Caulfield: Year One." His publicist and manager at the time urged him to keep his sexuality a secret.

Maher stayed in the closet, going so far as to let people believe that a female friend of his was his girlfriend and hitting on women when going out with castmates of the TV series "The Street." But keeping his secret became so exhausting that after "Firefly" was canceled in December 2002, he decided to quit acting. Then, in April 2003, friends persuaded him to go to a "rather large gay event" that changed his life. He met Paul, who he says inspired him to stay in Hollywood and pursue his dreams. Maher slowed down professionally and began to relax. He revealed in his new relationship.

"I hadn't had that in my life for a really long time. It was so exhilarating and wonderful," he said. "He's an extraordinary person and I love him tremendously. Finally, for the first time in seven years I just focused a little more on my life."

Maher began thinking about coming out about two years ago when he started working again after taking time off to be a stay-at-home dad. Then "The Playboy Club" came along.

“ I didn't sleep pretty much the entire season.

I was petrified. I pictured the meeting with the Fox people: 'We cannot have a gay actor being the star of our show.' ”

— SEAN MAHER, TALKING ABOUT HIS FEAR THAT HE WOULD BE FIRED FROM "RYAN CAULFIELD: YEAR ONE" IN 1997 IF PRODUCERS LEARNED HE WAS GAY

"I got this part and it just seemed almost too perfect," he said of the Chicago-filmed series, in which he's been completely honest about who he is, and is thrilled with the reaction to his coming out.

"The response has been just extraordinary," he said, adding that he expected to get support from fans and co-stars, but not from so many other people in the industry. "A lot of casting directors and studio executives, a lot of people behind the scenes in our industry have reached out to me or my manager to say congratulations ... and that they will only fight harder for me now."

Maher said that he would be honored to become an advocate for the gay community and equality in general, but the biggest reason for coming out is his family. He says the two years he didn't work to be with Sophia were enlightening.

"I always say that my daughter has been my greatest teacher. She was such a strong part in all of this," he said of his decision to come out. "She, of course, has no idea because she's 4. But if I could just explain to her the decision that I made [was for her], I hope that she would be proud of me."

Pinktoberfest!

5 ways to think pink for Breast Cancer Awareness Month

By Renee Mailhiot | REDEYE

If you're not quite ready for the pumpkin martinis and other treats that start popping up on menus this month, here's another October option: Sipping and snacking pink-hued treats to support Breast Cancer Awareness Month. These drinks and sweets all are available throughout the month. RENEE MAILHIOT IS A REDEYE INTERN.

Ribbon-tini at David Burke's Primehouse

616 N. Rush St. 312-660-6000

This swanky River North steakhouse is shaking up a mix of vanilla vodka, hibiscus- and ginger-flavored Hum liqueur, lime and Champagne for $13 a glass. The sparkly, citrusy concoction also is available in the James Hotel Lobby Bar next door.

The cause: $2 from each cocktail purchase benefits Bright Pink

Pink gelato at Rustic House & Gemini Bistro

1967 N. Halsted St. 312-929-3227;
2075 N. Lincoln Ave. 773-525-2522

These Lincoln Park sibling eateries will feature three different flavors of pink gelato ($7) from local favorite Black Dog Gelato: maraschino cherry, raspberry-lime and red plum-moscato.

The cause: A portion of profits benefit the Lynn Sage Foundation

Strawberry shortcake at El's Kitchen & Bar

1450 N. Webster Ave. 773-248-5210

Indulge your sweet tooth with this old-fashioned treat ($5) made with fresh strawberries and homemade whipped cream at laid-back

Strawberry mascarpone tiramisu at Quay

465 E. Illinois St. 312-981-8400

Recently opened Streeterville spot Quay puts a rosy spin on the classic Italian dessert tiramisu made with almond cake and strawberry mascarpone mousse ($8).

The cause: 20 percent of proceeds to the H Foundation

Lincoln Park hangout El's.

The cause: $1 from each dessert benefits the Lynn Sage Foundation

Think Pink cocktails at Roka Akor

111 W. Illinois St. 312-477-7652

Get your pink on at this River North steak and sushi restaurant with a special Think Pink cocktail menu as well as pink lighting inside the restaurant. Choose from Beat It ($12), made with yuzu and beet juice, agave nectar, apple juice, triple sec and Yamazaki Japanese whiskey, the Pink Pomegranate Shochu ($16) or the Pink Ribbon ($12) with St. Germain elderflower liqueur and sake.

The cause: A portion of profits benefit the American Cancer Society

INTRODUCING

A new take on dating... pick dates, not people.

How about we ... go to a farmers market and then have a picnic in Millennium Park
... get drinks on a rooftop and check out the view ... go kayaking on the Chicago River ... go see a comedy show and laugh all night long ... visit the new exhibit at The Modern Wing ... watch the fireworks

ROMANCE PLANET

BY JENNIFER SHEPHERD | READ MORE AT LIPSTICKMYSTIC.COM

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23
As a light-hearted Air sign, you don't handle conflict very well. Your usual strategy is to try to flirt and charm the person with whom you are clashing. Mercury says that isn't such a good idea.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21
Mars is putting you on the defensive. If your honey asks why you came home late, you could say, "I was entertaining my Italian lover" just to piss him or her off. Have you heard of counting to 10 before you respond in anger?

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21
You're trying to figure out how to make a relationship work. Maybe you've fallen in love with someone who is in a complicated situation with three kids and two ex-husbands. Saturn says keep thinking.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19
A friendly moon has you turning heads and causing a stir wherever you go. You'll discover that your earthy charms are appreciated by a few people, possibly neighbors or business colleagues. It's time to flirt, my dear.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18
You've been feeling pretty scattered as far as career and work go, thinking about different things you want to be when you grow up. Jupiter is adding to the confusion. Talk things over with that lover who adores you.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20
This is a good week to focus on you. Be completely selfish. The moon is telling you to do things that make you feel good and to avoid toxic situations and people. You need to recharge your emotional batteries.

Aries March 21-April 19
Fire signs like you hate being alone. You're a child in many ways, needing constant reassurance about how cute and wonderful you are. Venus is forcing you to spend time on your own, and this will be good for you.

Taurus April 20-May 20
You're coming up with a cunning plan to take over the world. Or, at the very least, you're devising a plan to seduce someone. Jupiter is helping you figure out exactly how to impress that friend who has been tantalizing you.

Gemini May 21-June 21
A casual friend could turn into a touchy-feely friend with benefits. You might not know what to make of this person's advances because you're not used to thinking about him or her in that way. The moon says do it.

Cancer June 22-July 22
You're not sure what you want right now, which is driving your significant other crazy. Do you want to change careers or keep doing what you're doing? The moon says consider all your options.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22
Your honey could flake out on you as Mars zaps him or her with confusion vibes. Stay alert. You might need to figure out directions to that restaurant or come up with a way to pay some extra household bills.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22
The moon is making you fret about real-life stuff like work, schedules and personal responsibilities, but Venus is encouraging you to have mindless fun. Make peace with both of your personalities and indulge both.

DR. KEITH SHARPE

British author Dr. Keith Sharpe discusses and signs his book, The Gay Gospels: Good News for Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgendered People at the Chicago Public Library. The free program takes place Monday, October 3 at 6:00 p.m. in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium, Lower Level, at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. In this book, Dr. Sharpe discusses his view that there is no biblical condemnation of homosexuality and shows how the usually-cited texts demonizing gay people are incorrect. He further argues that both the Old and New Testaments provide references of gay lives, identities and relationships. Presented by the Chicago Public Library's Pride Heritage Committee. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050

tuesday

CATHY N. DAVIDSON

The Chicago Public Library welcomes Cathy N. Davidson, Professor of English and Interdisciplinary Studies at Duke University, who will discuss and sign her latest book, Now You See It: How the Brain Science of Attention Will Transform the Way We Live, Work, and Learn. The free program takes place Tuesday, October 4 at 6:00 p.m. in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium, Lower Level, at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. Using cutting-edge research on the brain, Davidson shows how "attention blindness" has shaped our lives and produced one of our society's greatest challenges; incorporating the digital age into our outdated schools and workplaces. Now You See It is a refreshingly optimistic argument for a bold embrace of our connected, collaborative future. This program is presented in partnership with the Illinois Science Council. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

wednesday

DANIEL YERGIN

The Chicago Public Library welcomes Daniel Yergin, internationally acclaimed authority on energy, global politics and economics and recipient of the Pulitzer Prize for The Prize: The Epic Quest for Oil, Money & Power, for a discussion of his latest book, The Quest: Energy, Security, and the Remaking of the Modern World. The free program takes place Wednesday, October 5 at 6:00 p.m. in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium, Lower Level, at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. Yergin proves that energy is truly the engine of global political and economic change, as well as central to the battle over climate change. The Quest illustrates the principles that will shape a robust and flexible energy security system for the decades to come. This program is presented as part of the Albert A. Pick Jr. Fund International Relations Author Series through the Chicago Public Library Foundation. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

thursday

KRISTA AUGUST

Join author Krista August for a slideshow and talk featuring her book Giants in the Park: A Guide to Portrait Statues in Chicago's Lincoln Park at the Chicago Public Library. The free program takes place Thursday, October 6 at 6:00 p.m. in the Chicago Authors Room, 7th Floor, at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. Who knew that the Lincoln Park is home to 16 portrait statues, depicting giants from LaSalle to Lincoln and Shakespeare to Sheridan? In her presentation, Ms. August will bring these sculptures to life, sharing the stories about the people depicted by these bronze figures as well as the people who funded and sculpted these historical treasures. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

STEVEN PINKER

The Chicago Public Library welcomes Steven Pinker, one of the world's leading authorities on language and the mind and author of the extraordinarily popular books The Stuff of Thought, The Blank Slate and How the Mind Works, as he discusses and signs his latest book, The Better Angels of Our Nature: Why Violence Has Declined. The free program takes place on Thursday, October 13 at 6:00 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium (Lower Level) at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. In the book The Better Angels of Our Nature, Pinker explores the essence of human nature, mixing psychology and history to provide a remarkable picture of an increasingly nonviolent world. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

This program is presented in partnership with the Illinois Science Council. Registration is REQUIRED for this free event. Please go to www.chicagopubliclibraryevents.eventbrite.com to register and for more details. If you do not have access to a computer please call (312) 747-8184 to register.

W.S. MERWIN AT CPL

The Chicago Public Library welcomes the 2010 U.S. Poet Laureate W.S. Merwin, in observance of the 57th Annual Poetry Day. The free program takes place on Thursday, October 6 at 6:00 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium (Lower Level) at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. In a career spanning five decades, poet, translator and environmental activist W.S. Merwin has developed a signature voice unlike that of any other poet in English and is one of the most honored and widely respected poets in America. Presented by the Poetry Foundation in partnership with the Chicago Public Library. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

Words are the voice of the heart. --Confucius

WESLEY ADAMCZYK

The Chicago Public Library welcomes Wesley Adamczyk, for a candid discussion of his book, When God Looked the Other Way: An Odyssey of War, Exile and Redemption. The free program takes place on Saturday, October 15 at 2:00 p.m., at the Chicago Public Library's Roden Branch, 6083 N. Northwest Hwy. Chosen by the Chicago Tribune as one of the best books of 2004, When God Looked the Other Way details a ten-year odyssey of a Polish boy, whose father was murdered during the Katyn massacre, as the rest of his family was deported to Siberia during World War II. After their escape in 1942, Adamczyk's mother died from starvation and disease. Having lost everything dearest to a child, he continued his journey to America in search of freedom. For more information, visit the Library's website at chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-744-1478.

Alert the tanning parlors: "Jersey Shore" star Pauly D will DJ at Enclave on Friday.

Even former Playboy Playmates have problems —and Kendra Wilkinson puts hers on TV

ABOUT LAST NIGHT

trying so hard to look cool and relaxed that it probably had the opposite effect.)

Unlike me, Wilkinson knows what she's doing in front of a camera. She filmed five seasons of "The Girls Next Door" with Holly Madison and Bridget Marquardt (all three of whom were dating Playboy founder Hugh Hefner at the time), and she's now in her fourth season of its spinoff, E!'s "Kendra." If it were up to Wilkinson, her current show would last five seasons—at least.

"I want to go as long as 'Girls Next Door' did," Wilkinson said as her crew filmed us in a Macy's conference room. "And if I beat that, trust me, whew, I would celebrate."

The show revolves around the 26-year-old Wilkinson, former NFL receiver Hank Baskett and their son, Hank Baskett IV. Her book contains the same TMI humor as her show, but also sheds light on her postpartum depression and the two fights that she claimed nearly ended her marriage.

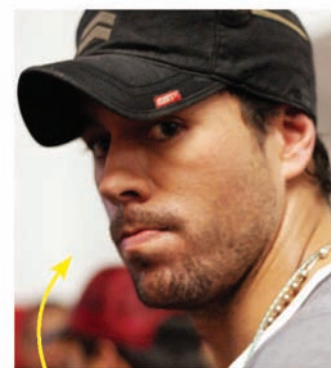

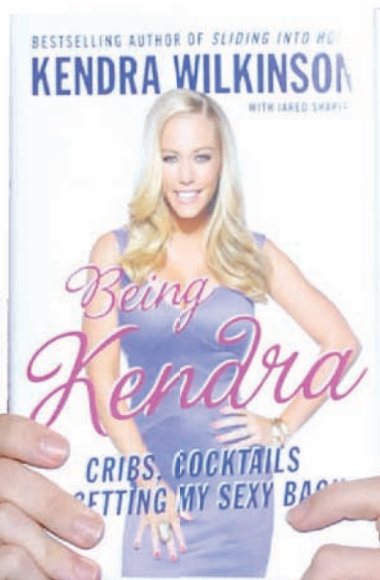

"I needed to share those [fights]," Wilkinson said. "I didn't want to look perfect."

Before sitting down with reality TV star Kendra Wilkinson at Macy's on State Street on Tuesday to discuss her book, "Being Kendra: Cries, Cocktails and Getting My Sexy Back," I was given three instructions so her camera crew could film the interview: Sign a waiver, pose for a camera phone photo and wear a microphone.

I don't love being on camera, but I agreed anyway. It couldn't be any more uncomfortable than the time I was filmed sitting on a hotel bed interviewing the bikini-wearing stars of VH1's "Megan Wants a Millionaire." (The latter scenario might sound great, but in reality I was

ALSO SPOTTED ...

» Enrique Iglesias partied at Underground on Saturday following his show at Allstate Arena.

» Former WWE champ and Chicago-area native CM Punk had a fish carcass tattooed onto the back of his left shoulder Tuesday at Family Tattoo in Roscoe Village.

» "High School Musical" star Zac Efron was spotted Sept. 25 at Public House.

» Former Gov. Rod Blagojevich watched football Sunday at Roots Handmade Pizza.

» Bears star Devin Hester dined at Joe's Stone Crab on Thursday. The Bears' Lance Briggs, Israel Idonije, Brandon Meriweather, Nick Reed and Corey Wootton hung out at Bull & Bear following their loss to the Green Bay Packers on Sept. 25. The Bears' Julius Peppers dined at Chicago Cut Steakhouse on Saturday.

» Pittsburgh Penguins star Sidney Crosby and several of his teammates dined at Hub 51 on Friday before partying at downstairs club Sub 51 and then Paris Club's upstairs lounge, Studio Paris. The Blackhawks' Patrick Kane and Jonathan Toews also happened to stop by Studio Paris that night.

BEHIND THE SCENES

In her new book, Kendra Wilkinson admits to planning out storylines with E! before each season. She claims those plans, however, always go out the window once it comes time to film. "We never ever stick with a plan," Wilkinson said. "How do you plan for a baby? How do you plan for [a pro football roster move]? We weren't planning on the [Philadelphia] Eagles waiving Hank. These things happen naturally."

NOV. 5

«HOT DATE

That's when Giuliana and Bill Rancic, stars of Style Network's "Giuliana & Bill," will light Macy's Great Tree at the Macy's on State Street, the Tribune's Luis Gomez reports.

Making the grade?

Despite claims from Universal that the numbers are "inaccurate," The Hollywood Reporter is offering something of a tell-all regarding what the original stars of the raunchy 1999 "American Pie" movie are being paid to reprise their roles in "American Reunion," which opens April 12. Even with Universal's denial, the numbers can be viewed as a report card on the various stars' post-"American Pie" careers.

EARNING A'S

Jason Biggs and Seann William Scott reportedly are getting $5 million each, plus a small slice of first-dollar gross.

STILL GOOD ENOUGH FOR THE HONOR ROLL

Alyson Hannigan, star of "How I Met Your Mother," is getting about $3 million.

GET THE GIRL A TUTOR

Tara Reid is said to have joined "Reunion" for close to the $250,000 that Universal initially offered.

"Kanye West's fashion debut was like being subjected to an hourlong MRI scan—but not as much fun."

Call her Karen O-pera

Get it? Get it? Yeah Yeah Yeahs frontwoman Karen O will debut what she terms a "psycho opera" Oct. 12, thr.com reports. "Stop The Virgins" features nine new songs and collaboration from Lili Taylor, Beastie Boys producer Money Mark, Jack Lawrence and Patrick Keeler of the Raconteurs and Yeah Yeah Yeahs drummer Brian Chase. Eat your heart out, Pavarotti!

THE DIGIT

9 or 10

That's the number of new episodes planned for a mini-season of "Arrested Development" in fall 2012, in addition to a movie, creator Mitchell Hurwitz said Sunday. Start freaking out... now!

Going dark

Steve Carell will take a sharp turn from laughter for his role in "Foxcatcher," Variety reports. Carell is set to star as millionaire John du Pont, who it's been theorized suffered from paranoid schizophrenia and who was convicted in 1997 of murdering Olympic wrestler Dave Schultz.
